

EULEN Conference on

Artificial Intelligence Systems and EU Law Enforcement – Between Effectiveness and the Rule of Law

23th and 24th March 2023

Call for Papers

The Jean Monnet Network on EU Law Enforcement (EULEN) and the Center for European Studies at the University of Castilla-La Mancha (UCLM) are pleased to invite contributions to the conference Artificial Intelligence Systems and EU Law Enforcement, which will be held in Toledo (Spain) on 23th and 24th March 2023.

Theme

The use of artificial intelligence (AI) is spreading among the various authorities in charge of enforcing EU law. Many initiatives are already being implemented regarding the adoption of automated decisions using AI systems by EU institutions and agencies, as well as by the authorities of the EU member states. Public authorities seem to be enthusiastically exploring the promise of AI in terms of a more efficient enforcement of EU law. At the same time, over the last few years there has been an extensive academic writing on the risks that this technological development may pose from the point of view of prominent EU values.

In this conference we will focus on the impact of AI systems on EU law enforcement from the perspective of the tension between effectiveness and the rule of law and fundamental rights. The following topics will be separately discussed:

1. AI systems and EU law enforcement – general issues
2. AI systems and EU competition law enforcement.
3. AI systems and EU banking law enforcement.
4. AI systems and the protection of EU financial interests.
5. AI systems and immigration and border control in the EU.

We welcome abstract submissions from academics (including PhD researchers) and practitioners (from both private practice and public bodies) conducting research in any of these topics.

Format

The conference will take place in person at the Center for European Studies of the University of Castilla-La Mancha (UCLM). It will be structured around five panels covering the four abovementioned areas of interest. Each panel session will consist of both invited and selected presentations on the basis of this call.
